Philosophy has been with us for thousands of years, through the rise and fall of civilizations and cultures, questioning and explaining the human experience, from fundamental questions of truth and justice to our individual values and beliefs. My intent in these essays is to present a few philosophical ideas as they apply to our world today, the digital age, the social issues, the role of the individual in society and the philosophy of arts. In doing so, I will use relatively simple concepts and everyday language, what I call 'kitchen table philosophy', where a few friends and colleagues sit around a kitchen table and discuss philosophical issues of common interest.
